drag and roll. All roads cannot be paved at present.

The township and village assessors met in the Auditor's office Saturday and received their blanks and instructions. Compensation was fixed at $3.50 a day instead of $4, as it was last year. The Harrison township man, being dissatisfied, resigned. The war in Europe and the high cost of living was his reason.

The Zollars boys of near Onelda have a cow that had three calves at one birth last week, two of which are heifers. No race suicide there.

Percy Tetlow of Leetonia would represent the labor interests of this congressional district more satisfactorily than any candidate yet announced; but with Metzger and Firestone dividing Columbiana county, there doesn't appear to be a sure thing for any of them, so that W. B. Francis of Belmont may land the plum on the democratic side of the national house of representatives and fill his customary second term in that honorable body. Mr. Francis was legislator out of that body when the new district was formed of all republican counties.

All the churches and Sunday schools in this village are preparing for Easter services. And it reminds me that when I was a youth of eight years I thought that rabbits laid colored eggs, until I peeped through a knot-hole in the door and saw mother coloring a bread-basket full of eggs with onion skins and cochineal. I told my brother what I had seen, and grandmother said, "Dozen kintchen kint too! all toom spits meekah mit dem rhoda oyer. Yah wohl, ich ke-wiss," or words to that effect.

R. B. Maxwell is hereby appointed a "booster" for his school district, to improve the grounds around "Mud College"; and D. R. Lehman will please accept the same job for District No. 8. The illustrated printed matter for such work can be had free by writing to the State School Commissioner at Columbus, Ohio. If every householder would donate one day's work to his district school grounds the effect would be very pronounced and appreciated by every one who passes, as well as to the pupils.

The time is near at hand for the biennial reunion at the Germantown school, whose first reunion was so successfully arranged two years ago by S. D. Culp, Daniel Klingensmith, Mrs. Wm. Weikart, Daniel Lehman and other former pupils of that school. Such events help fill memory's urn and plant milestones along life's rugged pathway from the cradle to the cemetery. Roses and carnations take the place of thorns and poison ivy.

About one fifth of the population of Carroll county reside in Carrollton. I dare not say that they are proportionately happy and well fed. And I will suggest that Greenford and Washingtonville have fewer objects of charity, according to population, than Youngstown. Extreme wealth and extreme poverty abide in the same community. It is said that "God made the country and man made the city." So that farmer boys should not be lured to the cities by the deception of $5 a day. There are more and better returns following the manure spreader than in following in kid gloves.

The Carrollton men held a meeting Friday night and were addressed by four gentlemen from Salem, who had been invited to give the local men a talk. They were L. P. Metzger, attorney, Albert Hayes, prominent merchant, K. W. Ullman, secretary of the Salem Chamber of Commerce and Rev. Aubrey, minister of the Episcopal church. The latter delivered the hair-raising address of the evening and will return later to help organize a C. C. here.

There is a farmer in Monroe township, this county, who owned a large log barn all in one room. In it he kept his horses, running loose and when he fed them he had to hit them on their nose with an ear of corn to make them hunt their respective places. When the manure got too high for the horses to get out he sawed a log over the top of the barn and when the ceiling became too low for the horses he and his sons held a consultation on the back porch one Sunday afternoon to determine whether it would be easier to haul out the manure or to move the barn. They settled the question by moving the barn and leaving the large pile of manure in place. The log barn in Carrollton does not follow this example but some are nearly as slow in other ways.
